MINISTER IS HONORED IN HOME TOWN

Hon. F. P. Burden Returns Here After Congratulations in Prince George Upon Appointment

ALL PARTIES
WELCOME CHOICE

Hon. F. P. Burden, Minister of Lands, has returned to the capital after spending a little over a week in his home city of Prince George, where he was engaged in transacting some private business, before entering upon the duties of his office here.

The return to the north was made the occasion, according to the minister, of manifestations of the honor which it was felt had been bestowed upon the riding which he represented by his selection as a cabinet minister, and also of the esteem in which Mrs. Burden and he were held by the residents of the north.

Last Friday evening, before Mr. Burden left Prince George, a complimentary dinner was tendered him by the board of trade of that city, when the ballroom of the Prince George Hotel was crowded to capacity.

Compliments were paid him by the members of the body and he was accorded the heartiest good wishes for his future.

Mr. Burden said he hoped to measure up to his new responsibilities and would do his best, but the greatest difficulty he would experience in the new condition would be in severing the relations which had bound him to Prince George and the district surrounding it for so many years.

He said he was sensible of the co-operation which had been extended to him by the people of his home town and appreciated it to the full. He believed all of the company gathered to do him honor were his friends, and he hoped each would regard him as their personal friend and be prepared to come to him when they had reason to believe he could be of assistance to them in any matter which affected them, and was not inimical to the welfare of the Port George riding or of the province generally.

The residents of Central Port George turned out in force and, after assembling at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver, marched to the home of Hon. F. P. Burden, the occasion of the visit being a presentation to the new Minister of Lands.

Refreshments having been served, Mr. C. P. Deykin was called upon to offer congratulations and make the presentation, which consisted of a cake basket to Mrs. Burden and gold Masonic cuff links and fountain pen and pencil to Mr. Burden. Mr. Deykin reminded the company of the long residence of Mr. Burden in Port George, during which time he had proved himself an excellent neighbor, and then, referring to Mr. Burden's political activities, said that four years ago, when Mr. Burden was defeated at the polls, he had accepted the defeat with good grace, proving himself to be a good loser, a good sport and, best of all, a good Canadian—qualities that all people admired in Mr. Burden. Mr. Burden, in return, thanked the company and said his only regret was in leaving Port George, in which he had been interested for so many years. The utmost good fellowship prevailed, both Conservatives and Liberals joining in hearty congratulations.

PRIZE CAR GOES TO MISS INNES

Native Sons of Canada Held Labor Day Picnic Monday at Willows Beach

The Whippet Four coach offered as a prize in connection with the Native Sons' Labor Day picnic at the Willows beach, the dance that followed at the Sons of Canada Hall was won by Miss Innes, of 2114 Central Avenue, Oak Bay, it was announced by the committee yesterday.

There was a large attendance and excellent weather for the picnic, the programme of track and field events being run off, interspersed with novelty events and other attractions.

The tug-of-war was, as usual, one of the major events, and was won by a Native Sons' team. A major committee of the local assembly of Native Sons, including Messrs. William Ivel, Arthur Pike, Len Campbell, A. Cruickshanks, George Beck, B. Monteith, Rod McLeod and others, helped by an energetic committee of ladies, staged the programme. Chief Fry acted as starter.

DELEGATIONS SEEK GRANTS

Numerous Bodies Arrive Here to Obtain Assistance for Public Works

The Parliament Buildings are being invaded by numerous delegations from different parts of the province who are seeking to ascertain what are the chances of having expenditures made upon highways that are in need of improvements, and on various other missions connected with public affairs, following the taking over of power by the new Government.

This is especially noticeable with respect to roads where inquiries are being made as to what are the opportunities under the estimates for the year to provide for the carrying out of some very necessary repairs to roads. It is pointed out that the information is forthcoming in the outlying districts that as a result of the activity of road work during the period immediately preceding the election there is an exhaustion of appropriations, which will prevent the carrying out of such work until the next session.

Mr. J. H. Schofield, M.P.P. for Roseland-Trail, looking better than he has for a number of years, is also here on business with the department.

Mr. E. C. Carson, M.P.P. for Lil- looet, is also in the city. Captain M. McLean, the defeated Conservative candidate for Fernie, is also in the Capital for a few days on business with the department.

Mr. Atkinson has gone to Vernon to attend the gathering that is being held there in connection with the subject of anti-dumping restrictions to protect the fruit growers of the province. There will be in attendance at that gathering also, Mr. L. P. Burroughs, of Ottawa, secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council. The convention opens at Vernon today.

UNION SOUGHT AMONG LATINS

PROF. PLOAN SAYS POLITICAL ABNORMALITIES RESPONSIBLE FOR CONDITION

Kiwianians and Gyros Hear of Expositions to Be Held at Seville and Barcelona

"The Latin-American countries are just getting over a period of distressing political abnormality, and a number of them have dictatorial Governments that are only satisfactory to some big companies," declared Professor Joseph Ploian, of Pomona College, California, in addressing members of the Kiwanis and Gyro Clubs at a joint luncheon yesterday in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

"The nations of the south," he continued, "are looking for the political regime that can be adapted to their present conditions and peculiar nature. It is necessary that some alliance or confederation of neighboring states should form a kind of United States in the south. The boundaries are purely political, and intellectual people do not recognize them. It is possible that the forthcoming expositions of Barcelona and Seville will be the neutral ground where matters can be discussed."

CANADIANS WELCOMED

This political background of these expositions would be the reconciliation of the Spanish and the South American peoples. There was a growing sympathy towards Spain in these South American States today. An international contact was needed by Spain, and the Spanish expositions would draw many from South America, as well as from other countries of the world. Canadians would be heartily welcomed at the expositions, which will open in the Spring of 1929 and continue until October, 1929, he stated.

Professor Ploian described Barcelona as "the Oriental edge of Canada," and gave great praise to Dr. Pearson, the eminent Canadian, who, he said, was in a large way responsible for the present prosperity in that city. Dr. Pearson never stopped his efforts in the world. He was always forging ahead, and among other things he accomplished was the feat of developing the waterfalls in the Pyrenees and thereby, took power down to the industrial suburbs.

TWO BRANCHES

The speaker said the big exposition would be divided into two branches, one at Seville and one at Barcelona. Nearly $50,000,000 had been expended at Seville on the grounds, which were perhaps the most beautiful in the world, and as they are, in marvelous gardens "nestling in the mountains." The Seville Exposition will

VISITING TARS WILL BOX HERE

Scrapers From H.M.S. Despatch Will Meet Local Lads at Armories Tomorrow Night

According to information gathered upon the arrival yesterday at Esquimalt of H.M.S. Despatch, there is aboard the warship some of the smartest boxers in the British Navy. The ship has a wealth of boxing material and the bluejackets set plenty of chance to mix things aboard and develop their boxing skill.

The pick of the sailors will be pitted against some of the crack local boys in a series of bouts to be staged at the Armories on Thursday night by the 16th Canadian Scottish. All the Victoria boys are members of the Canadian Scottish and 11th Machine Gunners. The bouts will open at 8:15 o'clock. Heading the card will be the meeting between Dave Lewis, the flashy mitt wielder, and Able Seaman Clarke. They will go three rounds. Lewis has not had a fight for some weeks and is just itching for a good slugfests match. Clarke is reported to be of much the same type as Lewis, so that the boys should find the going very much to their liking.

STORCH TO FIGHT

The reappearance of Charlie Storch, Victoria entry in the lightweight Canadian championship, will be welcomed here. Storch is a clean, keen fighter and his experience in Montreal has done him a great deal of good. The same thing goes for Frankie Neal, of the machine gunners, who is making his first appearance here since his bouts in Montreal.

Albie Davies, of the fast-moving local boys, is to have another chance to show his boxing ability. He will meet Seaman Wait at 125 pounds. Bob Hawkes' appearance in the 118-pound division, against Seaman Wright, is awaited with much interest by his mates in the Scottish. Johnny Plant gets back into action in the 136-pound class and his opponent will be Seaman Ritson.

Petty Officer Kerr will referee. There will be Highland dancing in the intervals, and lots of music from the brass and pipe bands.

VICTORIA TEAM WINS BIG SHOOT

Local Trapshooters Defeat Washington at Championship Meet—Lewie Horth Takes Honors

Victoria's trapshooters carried off the premier honors at the annual championship meet held at the traps of the Victoria Gun Club, Colwood race track, on Labor Day, when they won the team honors against a crack Washington squad. The locals scored 110 against 107 for the visitors. The teams were:

Washington—J. L. Coffey, N. C. Janssen, Dr. C. B. Claunch, F. Brackett and R. Long.
Victoria—Lewie Horth, M. Lohbrunner, D. McGray, H. Hasenfratz and E. Hasenfratz.

The local team won the silver cup donated by Hawkins & Hayward, Ltd., for this event. In addition to the Washington team, leading shots from Vancouver, Seattle, Port Angeles and other coast cities were on hand competing for the many valuable trophies donated by leading citizens and local merchants. Shooting started at 9 o'clock and continued until 4:30 o'clock.

HORTH TAKES HONORS

The premier honors of the day fell to Lewie Horth, a member of the Victoria Club. Lewie came through with some beautiful shots and walked away with the Peden Perpetual Challenge Cup for the highest average during the season for club members. This is the third time that he has won this trophy, which now becomes his permanent property. For the second year in succession he took The Colonist Perpetual Challenge Trophy for the same thing. He also won the gun down event, the prize being a handsome hunting coat donated by E. G. Prior & Co., and the miss and out event, winning 100 shells donated by the Victoria Gun Club.

Dr. C. B. Claunch, of Seattle, won the David Spencer Trophy, a handsome club bag, for the highest average of 100 targets, and he and J. L. Coffey, of Port Angeles, tied for the highest average in the 150 targets for visitors. Dr. Claunch conceded the prize to Mr. Coffey. E. T. Ragotte, of Camp Talbot, Washington, took the low prize for 100 targets, and won the prize presented by M. Lohbrunner.

HELEN WILLS MEETS HER MATCH IN MERE MAN; WINS ONE SET

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 4.—Helen Wills, met her match today in a mere man—Pete Mercer—but gained a moral victory when she won an added third set in which Mercer confined himself to baseline dueling. The match went far to decide the question of whether the phenomenal woman player from Berkeley, at her peak, can defeat one of the country's top ranking men. "He was too good," was Helen's smiling comment. Mercer won the match by scores of 6-3, 6-4, exactly the same figures by which Helen scored over him in an exhibition match here August 18. Traces of Murdered Explorer Are Found

Further Evidence Is Forthcoming of Death in Brazilian Jungle of British Explorer, Col. H. H. Fawcett, From Missionary

By A STAFF CORRESPONDENT
Special Dispatch to The Colonist and the North American Newspaper Alliance.
Copyright, 1928, by American Newspaper Alliance.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—Commander George M. Dyott's radioed report of the death in the Brazilian jungle of the British explorer, Col. H. H. Fawcett, confirms a fear entertained by a Philadelphia missionary scout who found evidence of such a tragedy on his last expedition into the wilderness of Brazil.

The missionary is Leonard Livingston Legters, field secretary of the Pioneer Mission Agency. He stumbled upon the trail of Colonel Fawcett, encountered a mule the British explorer had abandoned, and trinkets distributed by him to Indians, and sat upon Fawcett's trunks found in the hut of a tribal ruler while he talked with the chieftain of a neighboring village where he believes Fawcett met his end.

Mr. Legters' narrative is one of risk, sweat and malaria fever, of toil against great odds, of trail-blazing through matted thickets and of Indian hostility eventually overcome—an adventure lived under a relentless sun on a vast landscape 500 feet high and doubtless relieved by the expedition of Commander Dyott which last reported itself fleeing from menacing tribes.

"Our position is critical," said Dyott's brief but significant radio message August 11 to The Colonist and the North American Newspaper Alliance. "We have suffered much, many of the men are ill with fever and our resources have dwindled. We have had serious trouble with the Indians, but have avoided a clash by strategy. We are on our way out before it is too late."

Before the radio apparatus was abandoned as a burden in the exigencies of the flight, Commander Dyott reported that the Fawcett expedition, consisting of Colonel Fawcett, his son, Jack, and two other men, had perished at the hands of Indians in July, 1925.

REASONS FOR OPINION

Concurring in this, Mr. Legters said: "Besides the tangible evidence everywhere we went, I can give at least three reasons why I think Colonel Fawcett and the two men with him perished."

"One is that they started without sufficient food. The only way they could have lived was on wild animal life and the bounty of Indians. But no man can live on game alone, and that country, and vegetable food is scarce enough for the Indians, who live chiefly on manioc and fish."

"Second, malaria fever. It is there in very virulent form. It comes upon you almost without symptoms. Now you are well and two hours later suffering with a fever of 102; running quickly and prostrates you. With all precaution against malaria, every man in our party suffered from it except my son. I was astonished at something I saw. We met a canoe containing several Indians. Among them was a woman upon whose lap was a white baby. They were about ten feet from me. The baby's face was turned to me, and I could see its weak eyes and tender skin. It was distinctly light-haired. Its face was white as snow. The woman was pointing it with an oil. As soon as she saw me she put her hand before her own face as if to hide it."

"Third, and a significant reason, is that Fawcett and his men possibly incurred the enmity of the Indians. Some of the tribes are friendly, and some, like the Nahuqua, in whose midst I discovered Fawcett's trunks, are unresponsive. They remain distant. When they take a dislike to you it is apt to manifest itself seriously."

"The expedition in which I hit upon Fawcett's tracks was the second I had made to Brazil. We left Philadelphia in March, 1926, a year after Fawcett had begun his journey into the interior."

"At Simon Lopez, the last outpost of civilization, our party was increased by seven Indians. I have no doubt the Indians Dyott is using are the same. Here we heard the first word about Fawcett. I found one of his mules in the possession of an Indian. The man in charge of the post told me Fawcett had been there a year before. He had left with no guides, and was even then beginning to abandon his equipment."

"I don't know why he should have done this unless he found himself too encumbered for the tremendous task ahead. There were only three in his party. It is a man-killing country to traverse. A man must be more than ordinary; he must have physical and mental resources, great endurance and a good aid."

A SPIRITUALIST

"I don't know why Fawcett didn't take guides. Fawcett lived for a time in India. I was told he may have acquired the mysticism of that country. He was a spiritualist. He told my friends, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Landis, formerly of Philadelphia—

THE MISTAKES OF ROME

Rome declined and became a memory because of wrong living habits, chiefly wrong foods. Food refinement and food luxury reduce stamina and induce disease in nations and individuals.

Eighteen years ago Dr. Robt. G. Jackson was a broken man, weak from eating acid-forming refined foods, given four months at most to live by the great Sir Wm. Osier. But he lived entirely upon Roman Meal for two years and became entire and strong not even a cold since 1912. The secret? The 25% alkaline flaxin contained in Roman Meal, a food element controlled entirely by Roman Meal Co., Ltd.

Write for his new uncooked Roman Meal recipe and his free booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL," to Dr. Robt. G. Jackson, 315 Vine Ave., Toronto (9), Ont. (Adv.)

Mr. Landis is now a missionary in Chuyaba, Brazil—that a spirit had told him where he would find traces of a lost civilization. A supposed hidden city was believed located near the Serra de Romador, in the heart of the State of Mato Grosso.

"From Simon Lopez our destination was the headwaters of the Xingu River. We actually had to strike our way through. When one of our Brazilian helpers learned where we were going—into a region where the Indians were none too friendly—he deserted Dyott or ports that he found marks left upon trees by Fawcett. They were not Fawcett's marks; they were ours."

"When we reached the Kutisevu river I sent our animals back with the Brazilian to Simon Lopez. The Indians would certainly have taken them. There is a particularly savage tribe in that section, the Kahuqua."

"The spot on the Kutisevu where I found Fawcett had come in contact with the Indians was 150 miles from its source. It is an Indian village of the Nahuqua tribe. The ruler of the tribe, scattered in half a dozen settlements along the Kutisevu, about the size of United States army trunks or a steamer trunk. I remember seeing army labels on them. They were heavy and closed."

"The chief told me they had been left there by white men, a captain and two men, as the Fawcett expedition was designated by the Indians. The chief was not completely satisfied. Of course I was there for other work, not searching for Fawcett, upon whose trail I had hit accidentally."

"At that time I was about to begin a search for Fawcett. He had told the Indian agent at Lopez that he was expecting to return by way of Goyaz."

Another evidence of Fawcett was the many persimmon nut-rings in the possession of the Indians. The Indians were friendly but not talkative. They said they had received the trinkets from a white captain. They called him by his first name, but I can't recall what it was. Later I talked with the chief of a village on the Kutisevu River. He said that Fawcett had come to visit his superior. I think he probably was among the last men who saw Fawcett.

"Leaving Nahuqua headquarters, we proceeded north on the Kutisevu. I was astonished at something I saw. We met a canoe containing several Indians. Among them was a woman upon whose lap was a white baby. They were about ten feet from me. The baby's face was turned to me, and I could see its weak eyes and tender skin. It was distinctly light-haired. Its face was white as snow. The woman was pointing it with an oil. As soon as she saw me she put her hand before her own face as if to hide it."

Mr. Legters' home is in Deland, Fla., but his headquarters in Philadelphia keeps him here much of the time when he is not exploring. He is the advanced scout of missionaries. His job is to discover where the need for missionary work exists, then report to some denominational board as a result of his penetration into Mato Grosso, the Amazonian Mission in London and the Inland South American Union in this country are considering sending missionaries there.

Mr. Legters discounts a report by a French engineer, M. R. Courteville, of Rio de Janeiro, who says he talked with a man he believed to have been Fawcett, near Chuyaba, in October, 1926. The Frenchman's lack of geographical knowledge of the country shows his statement to be entirely mistaken, says Mr. Legters.

COMPANY PUTS CASH IN OIL

Brokers Firm Invests Largely in Turner Valley Oil Field

CALGARY, Sept. 4.—"As proof of the faith in Turner Valley held by Solloway, Mills & Co., Ltd., we have put $475,000 in cash into stocks and acreage in that oil field," stated Mr. W. C. Solloway, of Montreal, on Saturday morning when he arrived in Calgary for a short visit to the branch offices of his firm.

"We have 800 acres on structure and about 2,000 acres altogether," explained Mr. Solloway. "In addition to what we own as a firm we are holding a million dollars' worth of Turner Valley oil stocks for our clients. The money we have invested in the oil field on our own account has been Eastern money invested in Alberta."

"Just what we will do on our properties depends somewhat on developments during the next few weeks, but we expect to do considerable development work within the next year. We have tentative plans laid which will call for considerable drilling."

"All this development which is going on at Turner Valley at the present time is bound to force the attention of the public, and when the crop money is available there will be a big increase in oil activity among the public."

Mr. Solloway was a recent visitor here, in connection with his local representatives.

CHILDREN ASSIST SOLARIUM FUNDS

An attractive little programme given by seven members of the Del-Bear Club at 52 Linden Avenue last evening attracted nearly $10 for the Queen Alexandra Solarium, although the admission charge was only five cents for children and ten cents for grown-ups. Songs, dances, gymnastic stunts, recitations, etc., made up the entertainment, which was listened to by about forty people seated about the garden.

Edith Hillout (15) acted as director of the performance, and those taking part were Teddy Hillout (12), Douglas (11), Betty (7), Barbara (5), Eleanor and Gordon Aaronson (11 and 12 respectively) and Raymond Rose (8), gold medalist at the B.C. Musical Festival held here last May. In addition to the programme there was a candy stall, which cleared about $2.

This is the third concert the Del-Bear Club has given, and the Solarium is amassing the proceeds into a separate fund to be used for special purpose on behalf of the little Solarium patients.

CONCLAVE WILL CONCLUDE TODAY

Farwell Luncheon of Visiting Delegates to New York Life Insurance Parley at Empire

The annual convention of the $200,000 Club of the Pacific and Western Departments, New York City, is in progress here today. The convention opened on Monday, will conclude today with the farwell luncheon at 1 p.m. in the Empire Hotel.

Over 200 delegates from the States of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, California and Wyoming, the Yukon and Alaska Territories, and the Provinces of Alberta and British Columbia, are attending the three-day insurance parley here, which is the fifth held in this city by the New York Life Insurance Company.

The convention opened on Monday night with a grand ball, which was held in the Empress Hotel ballroom, and attended by a large gathering of visiting delegates and local ladies and local policyholders in the company, and other guests.

A business session took place yesterday, and the afternoon session completed the afternoon's programme. The annual convention banquet was held in the Empress Hotel last evening, and the delegates of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Alex. Peden, local representative of the New York Life Insurance Company, has had sole charge of the arrangements for the reception and entertainment of the visiting delegates and their ladies.

SELLING APPLES THE MODERN WAY

Edenapple Service Aims at Greater Improved Distribution of Product to Consumer

New and modern methods of apple marketing have been adopted by a group of interior apple men, forming the need of closer supervision of their marketing, a company combining the fruit growers of the Interior and managed by a practical fruit handler, has come out with a brand new and modern method of distributing fruit.

The aims and objects of this company are to see that the cities are supplied with the best apples the province can supply. They are making use of a stumpy car for the sale of the finest desert apples, choosing only the variety that is reasonable at the time it is put out, believing that by this method they can give to the purchaser a medium of distribution on which he can rely to supply him just the best desert apple of the season.

For the family trade, and to take care of the desire for a cheap package of reliable fruit, the company is adopting a handy shopping bag as a container.

In each city serviced by Edenapple Service a depot will be established for the purpose of attending to the trade of that city. The trade will be encouraged to purchase limited quantities of these packages of fruit, so that they shall never have shop worn or wilted fruit offered for sale. As the depot will pack fresh every day there is no reason for a package to be sold with fruit in a wilted or decayed condition.

Another and attractive method of distribution to be operated is a system of vending machines for the single apple sale, supply, and choice automatic venders, with small counter-top machines for the same purpose. When this company gets going no one will have an excuse for omitting an apple per day.

VENIZOS ILL

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 4.—Premier Venizelos today was suffering from the dengue plague, which during the last month has killed 413 persons here in Athens. The plague is a form of violent fever peculiar to warm countries.

The Ministry of Hygiene estimates that the total cases of the plague in Athens exceeded fifty thousand. Physicians asserted today that no anxiety was felt over the Premier's illness, which was developing normally and not dangerously.

LEAGUE WORK AT GENEVA TOLD

PROFESSOR EASTMAN SPEAKS IN FIRST UNITED CHURCH ON EXPERIENCES

Economic Influences Have Played Large Share in Recent Policies

Professor Eastman, late of the University of British Columbia, and now an important official in the International Labor Office, as well as giving a very interesting sketch of the work done by his office, gave a short resume of the impressions which the chief dolings of the League as a whole, during the past three years, had left on his mind, at the First United Church, Sunday evening.

He dealt with the state of mind of League officials. He said that because they no longer were working for their own countries but for the whole world, they by no means gave up their nationality. They took on a world outlook it was true; nevertheless, all the time they were morally and spiritually representatives of their own countries.

When he went to Geneva in 1925 he went on to say, he was full of enthusiasm. He found the spirit of Europe very down because the protocol had just been rejected by the British Government. The protocol, he considered, a very good and all-embracing scheme. A few weeks later Locarno pact was consummated, which brought optimism back to Europe. Then he witnessed the fiasco of March, 1926, when the entrance of Germany was barred by the League of Nations.

The great thing was that it was not due to the enmity of one of Germany's neighbors, but to a country not mixed up in the troubles of Europe; and so the enthusiasts for peace did not lose hope. This attitude was justified by the triumph of the League of Nations in the following September. Since then, he emphatically stated, Germany has justified her entry in every way. She has co-operated very willingly both with the main League and with the Labor office.

In 1927 the League made another great effort towards world peace. A Frenchman originated the idea; he said that as the political gateway to this end—the protocol—had been closed; why not try to open another gateway, the economic. The famous economic conference which resulted aroused the greatest possible interest throughout the world. One of the most important resolutions for the peace of the world, the one calling for a general lowering of tariff walls, passed almost unanimously.

Soon after this conference came the Franco-German accord, by which they agreed to lay all their economic disputes before the Court of International Justice. Thereafter, the League has appointed a conciliation commission to seek out some means of solving the coal crisis, acute in Europe today, and might easily lead to something serious. Professor Eastman himself is sitting on this commission.

In all these three years, he said, he has noticed the sure increase of American co-operation in League work; especially on humanitarian commissions. They were first officially represented at the economic conference. The Kellogg pact makes their co-operation inevitable; one might almost say that it has brought about a situation, the most full of promise since the close of the war. This pact promises that differences shall be settled otherwise than by war, that can only mean that they must be settled through the League. This brings the day of disarmament much nearer, he concluded, for until the States come in no great state will disarm; but when it does he thinks they will. The absence of the United States from the League is the greatest incentive to world trouble makers.

MINING COMPANY GETS INJUNCTION

Granby Consolidated Is Assured of Normal Power Supply From Now Until Sept. 10

In Supreme Court Chambers here, today, Justice Murphy yesterday granted Mr. E. C. Mayers, acting for the Granby interests, an injunction restraining the West Kootenay Power & Light Company from any interference with the normal supply of electrical energy supplied to the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power Company for operations at Allenby from now until September 10, on which date mandamus proceedings to be brought by the latter company will be argued.

The supply of electrical energy to the mining corporation was the subject of other proceedings to be argued, Mr. Mayers stated. Meanwhile, any interference with the power supply might occasion considerable loss to the company, as well as affecting adversely a large number of employees, he asserted.

The court granted the injunction asked, with leave open to the defendant company to apply.

OFFICIAL INACTIVITY

In this city the question is being asked seriously and persistently: "Have our authorities done enough towards recovering the bodies of those who lost their lives in the wreck in American waters of the monoplane of the B.C. Airways?" We have no shadow of a doubt that the American authorities would welcome every possible aid that could be extended from the Canadian side. Where it is a question of the dead there are no international difficulties that stand in the way. Some days ago a query came over the long distance telephone from Seattle: "What are the Canadian authorities doing to recover the lost monoplane with the bodies it contains?" It had to be admitted that they were doing little enough.

The American naval authorities would, we may assume, welcome the full and active co-operation of the Canadian naval authorities in the search for the bodies. Had the disaster happened on this side of the line, and had American lives been involved, our authorities, just as so often happens in the case of shipwreck, would have been glad enough to have had any American resources within reach placed at their disposal. In the instance of the monoplane there is clearly some explanation that ought to be forthcoming. It was anticipated that instructions would have been received from Ottawa by the Esquimaux Navy Yard and by every Federal agency here in a position to assist in the search, to give every aid within their power, and to spare no expense in the task. Civil aviation is governed by the Department of Defence at Ottawa. It is unquestionably a duty of that Department to do whatever lies in its power, in circumstances such as the monoplane disaster on the Washington coast.

What may be supposed to be the feelings of the relatives of those who were lost in the monoplane wreck? They must be feelings of resentment against those in authority because the mortal remains of their loved ones have been allowed to lie so long in the sea. Days ago dispatches told of the location of the monoplane. There are ample salvage facilities available on this coast and they should have been put into requisition without delay. Instead, much time, harrowing to the feelings of the relatives of those who have died, has been allowed to pass without all that could be done having been done. The delay is inexcusable, and part of the blame seems to rest on our own authorities who should have been far more active than they have been where death and disaster are concerned.

MR. MEIGHEN'S VISIT

The keen intelligence of Mr. Arthur Meighen, once Prime Minister and for a number of years leader in opposition of the Conservative party of this country, is now devoted to business. Mr. Meighen, no doubt, still takes the deepest interest in politics, but whatever that interest is he keeps it tucked away in his mind. His visit to the Pacific Coast is on business. His previous visits have been for political purposes. As one of the most prominent of our countrymen he is heartily welcome to this part of the Dominion. When Mr. Meighen gave up politics for business the former was a heavy loser and the latter a substantial gainer. The acumen which shone so vigorously on the floor at Ottawa has been translated to a field where it gets more tangible and unimpeded results.

In the work in which he is engaged Mr. Meighen has proved an undoubted success, an asset of high value to the organization with which he is connected, and Mr. Meighen himself is the first to agree that in the matter of physical health business agrees with him better than politics. In his last, however, from politics the Conservative party and the Parliament of the country have suffered, for few clearer intelligences, few more industrious workers and few better debaters have ever adorned the House of Commons. It may be that in the course of time Mr. Meighen will go back to Parliament. He will be heartily welcomed at Ottawa and by the Conservative party throughout the country. Such an intellect as he possesses is an asset to the nation. It is not by any means going to waste because he has transferred his energies to the business world, but there are many who hope that the day will come again when such undoubted abilities will be available, in a political sense, for the service of the Dominion which Mr. Meighen loves so well.

ISLAMIC UNIVERSITY DOOMED

Al Azhar, perhaps the most famous University in the East, is soon to disappear as the controlling centre of the Islamic world. It has been in existence for a thousand years, and to all Islamic peoples is known as the "Refugee," the giver of the light of education. The University is now without a Rector, the Egyptian Parliament having refused to nominate a successor to the venerable head who spent his adult life within its walls. There is no "Grand Mufti" (official head) and the Government intends to abolish the post altogether. Moreover, Parliament is also considering changes in the law, such as the abolition of polygamy. This, the heads of the Islamic faith and the learned doctors could never countenance. Al Azhar struggles against what it considers perverted views of the Koranic Law, such, for instance, as the equality of women with men. It objects to the abandonment of traditions that have come down from the earliest years of Mohammedanism. It protests in vain.

Al Azhar has 12,000 students from all parts of the Mohammedan world. Students, however, no longer accept the teaching of the men who live in a world of their own and know nothing of modern life. They want a change in the curriculum, because they have seen what Turkey is doing. They are anxious that the dead past should bury its dead, and they realize that modern progress is the privilege of every race that cares enough to pursue its rewards, and that those nations which, like Lot's wife, look with longing eyes to the civilizations of a bygone day will inevitably be pushed aside in the struggle for corporate existence and fall by the wayside.

WOMEN AND THE SENATE

When the question of women's eligibility to sit in the Senate is made the subject of a request for the amendment of the Constitution in the Parliament at Ottawa, it is the Senate itself that will have the last say on the matter. Where an amendment is wanted to the British North America Act the British Government will legislate accordingly, but the request must come from the Canadian Parliament as a whole. In other words, both Houses must join in the request. The action of the Quebec members of the Senate when the question is raised will be followed with interest. So far Quebec has refused to grant the vote to women; if that province, through its members in the Senate, is willing that women should be appointed to the Upper Chamber, it should logically follow that the franchise will be granted to the sex in Quebec without any further delay.

It is Mr. Lapointe, one of the Quebec members who, as Minister of Justice, will propose that the Constitution be amended for the purpose of admitting women to the Senate. In other words, it will be a possibility that the issue will become political, something that might well have been avoided had the judgment of the Canadian Supreme Court been appealed to the Canadian Committee of the Privy Council. The latter body, many lawyers believe, would have reversed the Supreme Court's decision, which would have meant that women could have been appointed to the Senate without further delay.

The London Observer is at odds with the various critics who believe that the Conservative Party in Britain is losing ground rapidly. It sees Mr. Baldwin, indeed, as a parliamentary and national figure whose personal strength is on the increase. Of him it says: "Not since the troubled days of May, 1928, has Mr. Baldwin's credit with the nation stood so high. In Parliament his speeches have rarely indicated his true quality. The precise language of official statecraft gives little scope to his human temperament. But the devotion of his followers grows with the growth of his capacity for leadership. Friendly, imperturbable and safe, he has kept the Government and the party in harmony. His figure will dominate the next election and will go far to determine its result."

Press agents of sport champions, professional and amateur, in the United States omit no opportunity of keeping their paymasters, or mistresses, in the limelight. Here is an instance. The news has been broadcast that Miss Helen Willis will vote for Mr. Hoover in the forthcoming presidential election. No doubt thousands are interested, but on the other hand, it is questionable if the announcement will sway a vote. It is really more important to know that Gene Tunney will not vote at all as he will probably be absent from the country when the elections are held.

PIPING DOWN THE VALLEYS WILD

Piping songs of pleasant glees,
On a cloud I saw a child,
And he laughing said to me:

"Pipe a song about a lamb."
So I piped with merry cheer,
"Piper, pipe that song again!"
So I piped: he wapt to hear.

"Drop thy pipe, thy happy pipe,
"Sing thy songs of happy cheer!"
So I sang the same again,
While he wapt with joy to hear.

"Piper, sit thee down and write
"In a book that all may read,"
So he vanished from my sight:
And I plucked a hallow reed.

And I made a rural pen,
And I stained the water clear,
And I wrote my happy songs,
Which you child may joy to hear.

—William Blake.

Note and Comment

By R. S. D.

Although the horse is rarely seen nowadays, except at race meets, exhibitions, or on the farm, the most intimate animal friend of man (with, possibly, the exception of the dog), has left something that will keep his memory green for a long time after the places that once knew him shall know him no more. For the capacity of all the machines that have taken the place of the horse is estimated by their horse power. The engine of the motor car, of the airplane, of the steamship, of the railway train, even the motor which draws its energy from an electric current, is scientifically constructed to develop a certain number of units of horse power.

In the days of the supremacy of the horse the traveler and adventurer sought new scenes or set forth in quest of adventures behind or upon the back of a horse. But even in those slow old days the people were eager for speed just as the people are in the present fast and dashing days. So they multiplied their horse power by hitching two horses to their carriages and four or more horses to their coaches. Then it was considered a grand and glorious achievement to travel from one town to another in a coach equipped with the limit in point of horse power. There were no speed limits in those slow old days when the people thought they were fast to the point of recklessness. The fast mail coach tearing along at the dizzy pace of ten or twelve miles an hour, drawn by four galloping, foaming horses, was considered a sight worth going a long way to see. The coachman who could handle his four-in-hand with skill and dexterity was the hero of the people who assembled regularly at the wayside inns and posting-houses.

We have had our regular annual pilgrimage to that shrine of progress and speed, the ambitious city of Vancouver. If the capacity of horse power, the sum set down upon paper surely would be impressive. The idea of estimating the position and business and growth of Vancouver in units of horse power was suggested by the chief engineer of the "fast and commodious and luxuriously appointed" steamship Marguerite. We never "travel" upon a steamship without introducing ourselves to the engine room staff and asking to be introduced to the propelling machinery. The engine room staff, although the conditions under which it does its important business are extremely sultry, and we should surmise very trying upon the temper, is uniformly courteous and accommodating. The staff of the Marguerite, from the chief engineer down to the oiler and helper, received us with the utmost cordiality, and showed us everything that was to be seen and answered all our questions to the utmost of his knowledge and ability.

The Princess Marguerite is propelled by turbine engines, which are more noted for their power than their fussiness. There is a tremendous mass of gleaming metal down in the engine room, but very little visible motion compared with what may be seen in the engine room of the older types of vessels. Any motion apparent is confined to a multitude of auxiliary engines, such as diminutive machines for operating pumps and dynamos. The main engines look like two great drums or cylinders, but we were told that behind the gleaming shafts which projected from those drums or cylinders there were seventeen thousand units of horse power being carried to the propellers at the extreme end of the shafts. That is, we were travelling to Vancouver in a carriage drawn by the equivalent of seventeen thousand horses—and one man, not arrayed in a gaudy uniform of blue and gold but in a suit of grey overalls—held all that mighty power in the hollow of the hand that rested upon a small wheel or lever.

The marine engine, like everything else produced by the brain and the hand of man, is fast developing from the simple to the complex. A few years ago a complete engine room equipment could have been set up in a very small compartment. It consisted mainly of a boiler and a cylinder with one piston rod attached to a crank shaft. We remember being introduced to the Scotch engineer on a lake steamer who had to work his valves by a hand lever when he got an order to "back-water." Today the machinery displacement of a modern vessel is greater than the gross tonnage of ships of the old type. It is not nearly so interesting to visit and test an engine room in these latter days as it was in the old days. For whatever the length of our days, we all remain children in one respect. We are impressed by the poetry of motion and the visible display of power. We demand, like "Helen's Babies," to see "the wheels go round." In Vancouver we saw the wheels going round—upon the streets and everywhere else. If the wheels of business are revolving as fast as the wheels of the motor cars that tear through the streets at a killing pace (in the literal sense of the term), Vancouver in a very few years should be in a position to proclaim herself the first city of Canada.

THIS TOURIST BUSINESS

Sir—On page 42 of the August number of the Canadian magazine, Forest and Outdoors, is an article well worth consideration by all interested in the more headlong and scenic preservation of our forests and scenery. Perhaps it could be reproduced in one of your Sunday editions. I quote a few short extracts, which are probably applicable to this province as to Ontario:

"The present head of the department of the Government concerned with the playground country, Hon. W. Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, has done more in his two years in office to protect the only great natural asset remaining to the country, that of scenery, than any other person. . . . He has established a Forestry Board to study and advise. He has passed legislation to protect timber along roads and streams, where its value as a picture is infinitely greater than as saw logs. . . ."

Also: "In one province, at least, it is far better to establish the fact that a view can be sold if the purchaser can only reach it in a motor car, and that he does not take the view away with him."

"Beauty and happiness is a commodity, and Canada has unlimited quantities of both to sell."

"It is here that the tourist business offers the means whereby much larger sums can be legitimately obtained than by the sale of land, and also justifies a more rigorous control of the methods of cutting."

Faithfully yours,
G. B. BARRETT (Lt.-Col.).
Crofton, B.C., September 1, 1928.

PRICES OF SCHOOL BOOKS

Sir—A comparison of the published prices obtaining in Vancouver for school books for the coming term, with the prices obtaining in Victoria for identically the same books, reveals such startling differences in favor of the former city that these differences are worthy of comment.

A careful analysis of these prices shows that in a large number of instances the Victoria prices are on a selected list of these books are approximately 30, 40, 50, 60, 75 and 100 per cent higher than the prices charged for the same books by the leading stores retailing them in Vancouver.

From a firm in Victoria, three hundred and thirteen high school books at a total cost of $17.65. These same books bought in Vancouver would have cost them $13.08, a difference of $4.57 in favor of Vancouver. One of these boys paid in Victoria $2.25 for a book retailing in Vancouver for $1.55, this book being purchased at a very large number of high school pupils have to procure.

Presumably all of these books have to be procured by the Victoria School Board and the Provincial Department of Education, and in view of the above circumstances it would appear that it is high time that these authorities should have some control over the prices charged by local stores to parents and pupils who are compelled to make these purchases from year to year.

Many young children are compelled by circumstances to go to school during their vacation in order to provide themselves with the necessary funds to purchase their books for the coming school term, and in the opinion of the writer it should be of scandalous that they should be overcharged to the extent indicated above.

Mrs. ANNIE E. BOWDEN.
Sir James Douglas Parent-Teacher Association, 119 Moss Street, Victoria, B.C., September 3, 1928.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaels

DAWN

In gradual glory rosy morning's light creeps up the East and with its flush takes the night. And with its flush come birds' faint twitterings, preening flocks of song and swirl of wings. No hour in all the journey of the earth is lovelier than this, when the sun's splendor after starlight's dote, and with the sun of promise lights man's soul. For, seen the dawn with day's renewal brings a hope so potent that the spirit sings; a flood of faith that lifts man on its crest and bears him up, and sure and blest! This dawn is but a symbol set on high to show how soon man's griefs will pass him by, and like the veils of night that vexed his way, will all dissolve before his way's golden ray.

JAMES LAM CHUNG DIES

VANCOUVER, Sept. 4.—James Lam Chung, Chinese missionary of the Church of England in Vancouver, died Monday in the General Hospital. He had been in the city four years.

Last year Canada sent 6,396,000 seeds of various trees, grasses, shrubs and other plants to the British colonies.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of September 5, 1878).

Severe Assault—On Sunday last a lad named William Shaw was brutally assaulted on the Hudson's Bay Co.'s wharf by an Indian. The assault was witnessed by an officer of the steamboat California, who immediately jumped ashore and delivered a severe beating to the Indian. Shaw was conveyed to his home in a critical and miserable condition, but last evening was gradually improving. The Indian who has also suffered considerably from the effects of his beating has not yet been arrested.

Dr. S. J. Willis Tells Kiwanians and Gyros of Brilliant Achievement of Scholarship Winner

Kiwanians and Gyros yesterday paid honor at their joint luncheon in the Empress Hotel ballroom to Mr. Leslie Howlett, M.A., who was the first student of Victoria College to win the Kiwanis Club Scholarship, and who has brought honor to the city of Victoria by his brilliant record as a student.

Dr. S. J. Willis, superintendent of Education in British Columbia, and a past president of the Kiwanis Club, in introducing Mr. Howlett to the gathering, outlined Mr. Howlett's success in the six years since he won the scholarship. Mr. Howlett, he said, taught for a period following a Normal School course, and then took his B.A. degree at the University of British Columbia. He was offered a fellowship with the University of Toronto, and was appointed research assistant in physics under Dr. McLenan. Last June he got his M.A. degree at Toronto University. He had last year been granted a bursary of $500 by the National Research Council at Ottawa. Dr. Willis declared.

In thanking the Kiwanians and Gyros for their reception of him, Mr. Howlett said the Kiwanis Scholarship had been of the greatest importance and aid to him in the furthering of his ambition. To work under Dr. McLenan was a great privilege, he said. Mr. Howlett gave great credit to Dr. McLenan, and praised the research bureau, of which the doctor is the head.

SAILOR IS KILLED IN CAR CRASH

Mr. W. Richards, of H.M.S. Despatch, Dies From Injuries—Mr. H. Richards Badly Injured

ACCIDENT OCCURRED AT COWICHAN BAY

Mr. William Arred Richards, second class electrical artificer on board H.M.S. Despatch, was killed, and Harry Richards, also a member of the ship's crew, was badly injured on Monday when a Victoria-Nanaimo stage struck the men down when descending the dangerous Buena Vista hill at Cowichan Bay.

H.M.S. Despatch is anchored in Cowichan Bay. About 100 men had landed at Cowichan Bay to take a bus into Duncan to participate in the Labor Day sports. The bus, which was one of the Duncan School buses, was parked at the foot of Buena Vista hill taking on the naval men.

The Gray Line stage, driven by Mr. W. H. Landy, of Victoria, was coming down the hill at the time the naval men were getting into the school bus. Mr. Landy had some difficulty with the control of the machine, according to police reports. The front fender struck the two men, who were about to embark on the school bus, and hurled them against the standing vehicle. The second impact was the one that did the most injury. It was reported.

Mr. W. Richards sustained a fractured skull and other serious injuries to his head, while Mr. H. Richards received bad cuts about the head. Both men were rushed to the ward room on board H.M.S. Despatch. Mr. W. Richards died at 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

Considerable credit was given the driver of the Gray Line stage by those who witnessed the accident, for the manner in which he avoided the other sailors, who were crowded around the school bus. Mr. Landy quickly brought his stage to a stop and rushed to the scene to see what damage had been done.

An inquest was held aboard H.M.S. Despatch yesterday morning, the jury viewing the body of Mr. W. Richards. Several witnesses were heard. The inquiry was adjourned until Thursday.

The funeral of the late Mr. Richards will be held this afternoon. The cortege will leave the Sands Funeral Chapel at 1:45 o'clock and at 2 o'clock the service will be held at the Naval Cemetery, Esquimalt, by Rev. F. C. Chapman.

United Church Leader Dies in Vancouver City

VANCOUVER, Sept. 4.—Rev. C. E. Manning, D.D., late of Toronto, general secretary for home missions of the United Church of Canada, died in hospital here yesterday. He was born in Ontario sixty-seven years ago.

Dr. Manning came to Vancouver from Toronto early in May to attend the sessions of the British Columbia Conference of the United Church. During the conference he suffered an attack of erysipelas, and was removed to a hospital. He recovered somewhat, and after being joined by Mrs. Manning and two daughters, he took up residence here in the hope of regaining his health. The attack, however, had left him weak, and he suffered a relapse which resulted in his death yesterday.

He is survived by a widow, three daughters, one son and two brothers, both retired army officers.

The body was shipped from here this morning for Toronto, where burial will take place.

DEATH BEREAVES PIONEER FAMILY

Mrs. G. A. Kirk, Born at Nanaimo in 1873, Was Granddaughter of Mr. Robert Dunsmuir

The funeral will take place this morning of Mrs. Elizabeth Georgina Kirk, whose death took place at about 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, following a long illness.

Widow of the late Mr. George Allen Kirk, who died in London only a few months ago during a trip in search of health, the late Mrs. Kirk was well known in Victoria and throughout Vancouver Island. Daughter of Mr. James Harvey, one of the pioneers of the island, and of Agnes, one of the late Mr. Robert Dunsmuir's daughters, she was born in Nanaimo fifty-five years ago, and passed the greater part of her life in Victoria. About a year ago she suffered a stroke, from the results of which she never quite recovered, and the tragic news of her husband's death while on holiday in England proved a severe shock to her. The venerable E. P. Laycock, Archdeacon of Columbia, will conduct the funeral, which will be held from the family residence, 532 St. Charles Street, at 10:15 o'clock this morning, proceeding to Christ Church, which ended here today. Interment will be at the Royal Oak Burial Park.

Surviving members of the family include her daughter, Miss Elizabeth (Betty) Kirk, living at home; a brother, Lieutenant-Colonel James Harvey, of Knapp Island; a brother-in-law, Mr. Lawrence Kirk, of London, England, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Holme-Sumner, of Sussex, England.

'MARY DUGAN' AT ROYAL VICTORIA

Gripping Melodrama of New York Life Holds Audience Spellbound—Brilliant Performance

Bayard Veiller's much-discussed and written-about melodrama, "The Trial of Mary Dugan," sent a throng of debating theatregoers out into the fog from the Royal Victoria Theatre last night after the first of its two nights' performances here. It is an absorbingly interesting play, brilliantly clever in construction and played with remarkable realism. The seeker after gripping drama will miss one of the opportunities of a lifetime if he fails to see the play while it is here.

The plot revolves around the murder of the man who has been Mary Dugan's paramour. Mary, "Follies" girl, is charged with the crime. The story, which is also the story of Mary's and several other lives, is divulged through the evidence given at the trial, three consecutive acts showing the courtroom at different stages of the proceedings without change of scenery or setting. All the regulation characters of the courtroom are found. The judge, the clerk, the jury, the attorneys, the defence, the court stenographer, a bevy of press reporters, police, witnesses and onlookers. A clever touch on the part of the playwright has been the involving of the audience in capacity of jury.

Humor, pathos, tragedy, the whole gamut of emotion are run through in the course of the examination, which involves a dozen or more witnesses. Dampening evidence is piled up against Mary Dugan, a part powerfully played by Pam Browning. Her second act is a masterpiece of emotional acting, her defence being so convincing in its sincerity that it hardly requires the third act to demonstrate her real relation to the crime. The actors take her case the first by conventional methods; the second, her own young brother Jimmy (magnificently played by Shirling Oliver), with inexperience but desperate sincerity. It is a compliment to the playing of Paul Harvey, in the role of the district attorney, that he makes himself positively disliked by the audience for his brutal and ironic bullying in his cross-examination of Mary and the witnesses.

The handling of the evidence is a superlatively fine bit of playwrighting and although the interest is thrillingly sustained, there is a sharp and unexpected climax still in reserve for the close of the third act. It left the audience momentarily non-plused. The play was enthusiastically received.

Grim tragedy is relieved by tense humor, furnished particularly by the witnesses, played by Adrienne d'Amplour, as the French maid of the murdered man's wife; Duke Johnson, Anita Kerry and Pierre Reilly as players from "The Follies"; the negro elevator boy, and others. Jean Shelby brought great ability to the playing of the part of Mrs. Rice, the murdered man's wife.

HASSEL PLANE FLYERS FOUND IN GREENLAND

Hassel and Cramer Arrive at Mount Evans After Walking Hundred Miles From Landing Place

WIRELESS BRINGS WORD OF SAFETY

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—At the base of an ice cap in Greenland, two daring adventurers of the air today were resting and thinking of how to return to Rockford, Ill., as soon as possible. The plane in which Bert Hassel and Parker Cramer had flown from Rockford to Colbrance and then to Greenland lay one hundred miles away on the ice and perhaps smashed in weather typical of Greenland, "the cradle of storms."

The marvel of radio enabled news of their safety, after two weeks arduous progress afoot, to reach the United States in two minutes. But static, a haze which science has yet to conquer, withheld details of their struggle of 100 miles by the most primitive method of movement in the Arctic when the most modern method had failed them.

The radio station of The New York Times, which received news on Sunday of the flyers from the University of Michigan Greenland expedition at Mount Evans, could obtain but fragmentary messages on Monday. Hassel managed to get word through that his plane was about 100 miles from the camp of the expedition, which rescued the flyers. The plane was undamaged when the flyers started their trek to the camp, but heavy winds soon afterward indicated to Hassel the possibility that the Greater Rockford might be smashed.

Indications were, however, that for some days yet the flyers must remain with the scientists at Mount Evans, who virtually live the life of Eskimos in order to study storms.

BANFF FESTIVAL ENDS

BANFF, Sept. 4.—Sunny Alberta lived up to its name at the second annual Highland gathering and Scottish music festival, the four days of which ended here today. Perfect weather prevailed right throughout and the function will live long in the memory as one of the most successful from every point of view ever held in this province.

Regina took the lead with Pipe Major Neil Surridge, of the 12th Signal Band of that city, who won three major events.

Complaining that her husband had beat her every week-end for five years, a woman recently appeared to the police in London.

Tax Penalty Termed Usury By Alderman

Terming the 8 per cent penalty on the property tax after September 30 as nothing but usury, Alderman William Marchant last night, endeavored to have a resolution brought up at the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention by the city's delegates, advocating the abolishing of this penalty.

His resolution, however, did not receive support. So divergent were the opinions of each alderman that it was thought inadvisable to send a resolution on to the convention which would not be unanimously supported by the city's delegates. In most cases the aldermen were opposed to abolishing the penalty, although most of them felt that it should not be such a heavy one. The outcome of the discussion is expected to lead to the spreading out of the penalty to 2 per cent each month, until the maximum of 8 per cent is reached.

COURT QUASHES SAANICH ACTION

Rescinding by Council of Licence to Mr. A. V. Lang for Raising Foes Set Aside by Judge Murphy

By an order by Mr. Justice Murphy in Supreme Court Chambers here yesterday, the action of the Saanich Council in rescinding the licence granted to Mr. A. V. Lang in connection with fox raising was quashed, owing to irregularities in the proceedings by which this action was taken.

His Lordship affirmed that his decision applied to this particular case, and could not be used as a precedent in other cases where the facts might differ materially from the matter under review.

Mr. Ernest L. Tait appeared as counsel for the municipality, and Mr. C. H. O'Halloran and Mr. A. J. Patton for the objecting parties.

C.P.R. EMBARKS ON SETTLEMENT PLANS

MONTREAL, Sept. 4.—Two settlement projects have been arranged by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company with Lord Lovat, Under Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs and chairman of the Overseas Settlement Committee. MANY QUESTIONS FACE DELEGATES

Canadian Clubs' Convention Opens
Today at Calgary—Speakers
Tours to Be Mapped Out

One thousand meetings on Canadian public questions will be planned by the Association of Canadian Clubs, if recommendations of the executive committee are accepted by the annual convention, which opens today at the Palliser Hotel, in Calgary, Alberta, and continues until Friday, Mr. William T. Straith, vice-president of the Canadian Club of Victoria, is the local delegate attending the conference.

A budget of $18,000 will be proposed at the party, to be collected on the basis of a fifty-cent affiliation fee, and will mainly be devoted to organizing speakers' tours. A special committee on finance and speakers' tours will discuss the details of the recommendations.

The association organized six hundred meetings for Canadian Clubs in the past year, more than one hundred being for Western speakers in Eastern Canada. A similar number of meetings for Maritime speakers is being arranged throughout Ontario, Quebec and Western Canada.

Five committees will handle the business of the conference and consider the recommendations of the executive and of the individual Canadian clubs. The committee on finance will plan the expenditures on the speakers' itineraries and will be the main committee of the conference. A second committee will deal with the functions of the regional committees in the fourteen regions. The executive is recommending that the work of organizing new clubs, arranging regional and provincial tours to supplement the national tours organized by the central office, and visiting the clubs devoted upon the regional committees. Formerly, the national executive at Ottawa carried out these duties, assisted by regional officers.

A project for bringing important public questions more prominently before Canadian Club members by means of addresses and articles in the Canadian Club magazine, The Canadian Nation, will also be discussed. The project is to create a national research committee at Ottawa, composed of leading figures in Canadian public life and representative of the different parties and economic interests of the country.

This committee, assisted by research experts, will draw up careful studies of public questions, discuss the different points of view, and will arrange to have speakers and writers deal with the subject, on the basis of the work of the research experts, throughout the Dominion. The executive committee has studied the project for two years, and has consulted a large number of public men and officials on the project.

Two other committees will deal with the nominations for the officers of the association, the next place of meeting, and general resolutions. Among the resolutions on Canadian nationality, naturalization, and the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the landing of Jacques Cartier in Canada in 1534.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

FATIGUE POISON

A person who overworks, without obtaining sufficient rest or sleep, actually poisons his system with fatigue toxins. Our bodies are continually using or burning up which leaves a kind of waste product like gas fumes and ashes. When we exercise, these products are produced much more abundantly.

These waste products must be promptly removed from the muscles and tissues, or they will interfere with the process of metabolism. When they accumulate in our blood we feel the symptoms of fatigue. It has been proven that when the blood of the fatigued person is injected into another, the sense of weariness is transmitted to the second person.

Life is a continual process of building up and tearing down. Fresh substances are being continually added and become a part of our tissues, and waste products are being continually discharged. The same blood which carries the nutritive elements to the tissues also carries away their waste products.

A tired person is a person poisoned by his own waste product. In order to protect us against this, nature has provided means for our body to destroy these poisons or to discharge them through eliminative organs. When these poisons are removed from the blood we feel refreshed.

Many diseases are brought on by fatigue. You may have noticed that your colds usually develop after you have been up late the night before or were over-tired. This is because the poisons of fatigue have formed in your body, and the tired eliminative organs were not working at their full strength and allowed the poisons to accumulate.

During rest and sleep these organs have an opportunity to purify the body. The fact is that the elimination of these toxic substances will make one feel stronger, and this is one of the reasons why patients often feel stronger after fasting for eight or ten days. Many times they feel easily exhausted at the beginning of a fruit fast, because of the stirring up of toxins in the body, and then they actually begin to feel stronger day by day until their systems have become more cleansed.

An irresistible hunger will make itself felt when the body needs food. The feeling of weakness is not usually an indication that the body needs food. It either means that the poisons have been allowed to accumulate within the body. Sleep provides the rest for the nervous system.

Most cases of serious chronic diseases, such as tuberculosis and cancer are prepared for by the condition of body poisoning and nervous enervation.

It is well-known that extreme cases of exhaustion lead to death from toxic poisoning. Fatigue is nature's warning that it is time to rest, and it is well to stop any activity as soon as one feels fatigued. If you use coffee and stimulants to spur yourself on when you feel tired, you are simply using up your reserve energy and shortening your life.

Bishop of Honan to Lecture Tonight on The Future of China

"What is to Become of China?" is the title of the lecture to be given by Right Rev. Dr. White, Bishop of Honan, this evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Memorial Hall. The Dean of Columbia will take the chairmanship of the meeting. Bishop White has spent many years in the heart of Eastern China, knows the Chinese of his diocese intimately, and what the native students are thinking. Few living men are better able to interpret the aspirations of modern China, and supply (if it be possible) a clue to its great future.

TRIBUTE PAID TO LONG SERVICE

Valdettory Message to Mr. P. H. Carroll in Terminating 37 Years With E. & N. Railway

Tribute to the work of Mr. P. H. Carroll as baggageman and constable, for a period of thirty-seven years, during which time he had charge of the old Johnson Street bridge, was paid in a letter sent by Mr. J. D. Fraser, superintendent of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway, on the occasion of Mr. Carroll's retirement.

Reference was made to his "faithful, cheerful, and devoted service" during the period, and the frequent manifestations of a courteous, pleasant, and obliging manner. The letter continued:

"Although you have been retained in active service for some nine years longer than the age set by the rules of the pension department, your general health does not seem to have failed you in any way, and the company now feels that in justice to yourself, you should be allowed the remaining days to be spent in comparative ease so that you may get away from the material and enjoy the pleasures and beauties that come to one in the autumnal days of life."

"As I write these few lines to you, the thought comes to my mind of the deep personal pride and satisfaction that must be one's who has so honorably discharged his duties and is able to retire amid the sincere encomiums of those whose interests he has shared."

"Allow me to take this opportunity to include Mrs. Carroll and your family in our wish that your leisure years may continue in health, and bring you great joy and prosperity."

SAANICH SOCIAL CLUB

The weekly meeting of members and friends of the North Saanich Social Club was held in the club rooms, School Crossroad, on Saturday evening. The evening passed very pleasantly at progressive five hundred, which was played at thirteen tables. The prize was won by Mrs. Sansbury, and the men by Mr. Albert Creamer.

At the termination of the cards, the younger members assisted the supper committee in the serving of refreshments, and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, which was enthusiastically indulged in until midnight, the music being efficiently supplied by Mrs. H. G. Horth, at the piano, and Mr. Ernest Livesey at the drums.

Outsider Captures City Golf Honors at Colwood

Alexander Watson, Five Times Interior Champion of British Columbia, Annexes City Laurels by Defeating Goldwyn Terry

Alexander Watson, a member of the Victoria Golf Club and entirely a new face in local golf circles, was on Labor Day crowned city champion by defeating the youth Goldwyn Terry at the Colwood Golf and Country Club over thirty-six holes final, 4 and 2. Watson was five times interior champion of British Columbia.

The newly crowned golf monarch swept aside some tough opposition in the quarter and semi-finals, in the persons of Bob Morrison, medalist of the tourney and Upland club champion, and Norman Wallace, sixteen-year-old club title holder at Macaulay.

On the other hand, the defeated finalist forced Jack Watson to write the prefix "ex" before his titular appellations when he pried him loose of his crown in the semi-finals at the turn by shooting a 13, while his opponent required eight more strokes.

In the afternoon the champion continued to stretch his lead and arrived at the twenty-first hole seven to the good. Terry showed great fighting spirit and captured five of the next seven holes and halved the other two. He was given a great hand from the gallery when he reduced Watson's lead to two. However, Watson, realizing his advantage was too lengthy, stepped out and took two more holes to make him four up. Terry came back again and won the thirty-third hole a par putt, but was not to win the next hole and ended the match.

The scores of the morning round were as follows:

Yankees Weaken in Sight of Pennant And Race Tightens

Connie Mack's Athletics Busy Clawing Their Way to Top as New Yorkers, Who Lack Old Punch, Slide—Race in National Is Warm

By WALTER TRUMBULL
(Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

Speaking of sport, the next two weeks will be fuller than an eye with a couple of cinders in it. Baseball, tennis and golf are galloping down the stretch and, if you listen closely, you can hear the room of the punted pigskin.

Baseball alone is responsible for many a strained heart. If the Yanks and Athletics could manage to finish even and it became necessary to play an extra and deciding game the hospitals would do a great business in rabid booters. If this year hasn't offered conclusive proof of the old saying that anything can happen in baseball, I am willing to join the sect which declares that it never has been demonstrated that the earth is round.

The National League race has been hotter than onion soup all the way, but the Yankees looked as sure a bet for the American League flag as Hobbs Jones would in a golf match against Irvin Cobb. Now that race looks as tight as Herb Pennock's belt on Babe Ruth.

When Connie Mack put his veterans on the bench and his youngsters on the field I doubt whether he had any real idea that the latter would perform as they have. He doubtless hoped that they would, but it looked as if the Yanks were too far in front to be headed, and so if the main value in playing the youngsters would be to give them experience for next season. The youngsters had different ideas. Behind fine pitching they steadily have been clawing their way to the top.

There isn't a doubt that the Yankees have had hard luck. When such players as Lazzeri and Pennock are not in shape New York is not as strong as it might be, but the thing which has made the team so formidable always has been its ability to do its stuff when there was need of it. More than once it appeared that the Yanks were going down for the third time, they suddenly have gone into the crawl stroke and beaten a couple of Johnny Weissmuller's records. They always felt that they could speed up when the time came. They seemed possessed of an inner power which could be called upon for an explosive supply of reserve force. They believed that they could swing from the ankle at any moment and leave the other guy as flat as a coat of varnish.

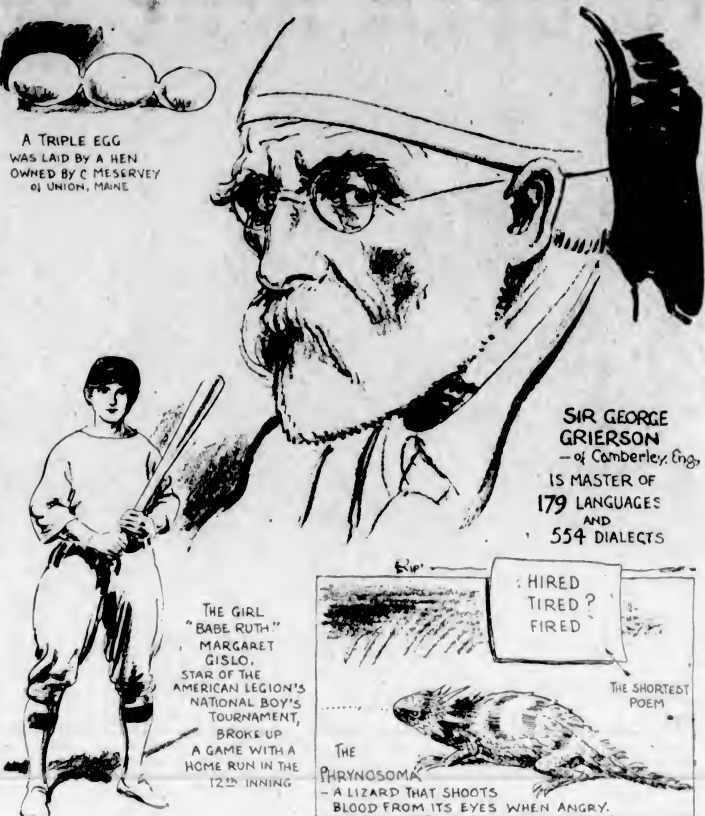

It looks as if the Yanks have lost the old punch. Pitchers for other teams stay out there on the mound longer than they once did. The New York Club hasn't been hitting. It may be that its legs have slowed up or it may be bad timing, but something has happened to the old sock. Once in a while the boys may cut loose and pound the leather in old time fashion, but they haven't been doing it on the average—when his mean runs, and that is what counts. This naturally must have an effect on the New York pitching. When a pitcher can go out feeling that the boys are sure to give him a lot of runs to work on he doesn't worry much over a mistake or two, but when he knows that a ball pitched in the wrong place or an error may mean the game, he naturally tries to tighten up and, as a result, sometimes presses.

Moreover, the Yankees haven't had any real opposition for so long that the sight of an opponent pounding alongside with the finish mark so near, especially when that opponent has come from way behind, is not reassuring.

Scarcely less interesting than the great race in baseball is the tennis

MORGAN-CARTER BATTLE A DRAW

"Wildcat" Score Heavily in In-fighting, but Is Greedy and Bleeding in Last Round

VANCOUVER, Sept. 4.—Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion of the world, and Leslie "Wildcat" Carter, of Everett, Wash., fought ten fast rounds to a draw at the Arena, Monday night. Carter, at the time, fought with savage ferocity and scored heavily in the in-fighting by throwing gloves at the champion from every angle, but Morgan, fighting a cool and crafty battle, tied the negro up nearly when the pace got too fast and scored with sharp blows to the midsection. In the tenth round Morgan leaped to the attack and showered Carter with blows which left the "Wildcat" groggy and bleeding at the mouth.

The greater part of the fight, however, was a going struggle, in which Morgan was the champion. A fast-thinking, hard-punching mauler with a rapier-like left and jolting right. At other times he looked anything but the kingpin under Carter's ripping, chopping, soaking attack. The tide of victory came and went out for each as the bout progressed.

Tilden's Suspension Puzzles O.C. Critics

Report That He Will Apply for Reinstatement Causes Much Comment—Lott and Hennessey America's Most Promising Players

By VINCENT RICHARDS
American Professional Tennis Champion and former Davis Cup star
(Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Followers of tennis here cannot understand the suspension of Bill Tilden by the United States Lawn Tennis Association. British officials believe that Tilden can continue to play in amateur events in England, although all nations come under the rules of the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

Most critics feel that a ridiculous situation has been created, as the French players are allowed to write and do anything they wish, and besides have various other means of making money.

The statement made by Tilden that he will seek reinstatement at the next meeting of the executive committee puzzles British tennis officials. They cannot see how the American executive can do anything but stand by their decision.

Tilden's remark that he is far more an amateur in spirit than some men who have run tennis for years with one eye on the gate, and who, Bill says, exploited him for their advancement, did not make a hit over here. It struck right home at English officials who have been taking $200,000 each year out of Wimbledon.

Also Tilden's statement that he will not consider professional tennis is taken lightly in this country. It is believed that he will make a great drawing card in the professional circuit in the next six months.

TILDEN DEFINITELY OUT
With Tilden definitely out of the national singles championship, I do not see how the French stars can fail to win the United States national title. I would pick Coche as the logical successor to Lacoste.

The victory of Lott and Hennessey over Patterson and Hawkes was something of a sensation over here. Experts think our committee made a mistake in not playing these young Americans in the Davis Cup challenge round, as the experience they would have gained might mean the capture of the cup before very long.

In London Lott and Hennessey are regarded as the most promising of the younger players in America, young enough to show much improvement in the next few years. Personally, I believe Lott, although unorthodox in style, will scale the tennis heights. He is a

1923 Walker Matches Full of Thrills

FRANCIS QUIMET'S GREAT EXPLOSION SHOT AT RYE, ENGLAND, IN 1923 WALKER CUP MATCHES

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

The Walker Cup matches at the Chicago Golf Club last week reminded me of some golf history that Francis Quimet made in the cup matches in 1923.

"Jesse Sweetser and I were pitted against Cyril Tolley and R. De Montigny in a two-ball match. Quimet says, 'and found ourselves on the fifteenth two up.'

"The fifteenth at Rye calls for a drive and a midiron second shot. The Brits were on the green in two, but I started off with a very poor tee shot and Jess, on the second shot, put the ball in a very deep trap, sixty yards off the hole. An explosion shot was needed and a perfect one at that. Getting to the green would take a miracle.

"Well, if you believe me, I hit the ball in some way—that not only got it out of the trap, but rolled it to within three feet of the cup. Tolley and DeMontigny took three putts for a five while Sweetser sank our putt for a par four. We finally won the match 3 and 1.

"But certainly that occasion was scarcely more exciting than the finish of my match with Roger Wethered in the battle of 1923 for the Walker Cup.

"Wethered had me one down on the 18th and we both had reached the green in two. Roger, about twenty-five feet from the cup and I about twelve and then he laid me a stymie on his first putt.

"There was a suspicion of a roll in the green, which if I could catch it, might carry my ball around Wethered's. My ball started as though bound straight for a collision with Wethered's. A huge sigh went up from the gallery of 10,000. Then it sneaked off to the side, drifted around the stymie and fairly crawled into the hole for a birdie three and a tie which amounted to a win."

The principal thing in the way of winning singles matches from the French is to have a few players such as Lacoste, Cochet and Borotra. That is to say that the main thing in the way of winning the Channel is to overcome a few difficulties such as the temperature of the water, the currents and the distance. But it has been done.

ANCIENT MINE AGAIN WORKED

General Manager of Historic Workings on Island of Cyprus, Mr. James L. Bruce, Visitor in City

EGYPTIANS THE FIRST OPERATORS

A fascinating story of abandoned mineral treasure known to the Egyptians four thousand years ago and only recently restored to its classical importance in Mediterranean commerce is told by Mr. James Lattimer Bruce, of Skouriotissa, Cyprus, who has been a visitor in the city recently. Mr. Bruce is president-director and general manager of the Cyprus Mines Corporation Limited, with head office at Los Angeles, which in 1912 reopened the ancient workings. After sixteen years, during which up-to-date equipment has been installed, ore is being shipped in paying quantities, 200,000 tons being taken from the mine last year.

The history of the discovery of the big copper deposits is legendary. But the story is the common possession of all native Cypriots. More than 3,200 years ago, the legend has it, a fleet of Egyptian warships landed an invading army on the island of Cyprus. Although fiercely repelled by the islanders they eventually, by sheer weight of numbers and superiority of arms, succeeded in conquering the island for Egypt. During the encounter many Egyptians were wounded. Their companions-in-arms carried them to a big cave in the side of the mountain, where the soldiers' wounds were bathed with a greenish water which they found in the floor of the cavern. It had magical healing powers. Subsequently the Egyptians discovered that the greenish color came from the copper ore over which the water ran, and immediately their possession of the island was secure they mined the mineral and carried shipload after shipload back to Egypt.

It is in the same district that the Cyprus Mines Corporation is operating today. After the Egyptians the island passed, at one time or another, under the control of the Greeks, the Phoenicians, the Assyrians, the Persians, and the Romans. The Greeks left the greatest impress on the island, 75 per cent of the present-day natives being their descendants, according to Mr. Bruce.

It was in 306 B. C. that the island fell into the hands of the Ptolemies, who controlled the destinies of Cyprus, including its rich resources in the way of minerals and timber and wines, until the masterful hand of Rome smashed the rule of the Ptolemies in 57 B. C.

Like the Egyptians, the Romans operated the great copper deposits which are now the property of the Cyprus Mines Corporation. They smelted great shipments of high-grade ore, and among the interesting relics of the Roman occupation of the island is a mountainous pile of slag at the mouth of the mine. In dumps found on the surface or in galleries deserted for nineteen or twenty centuries, have been found the fragments of a number of the great earthen jars which Roman slaves used to carry water and ore from the mine. Other interesting relics of the ancient operations are frequently discovered in tombs nearby, among them tiny earthen lamps which were used by the workmen.

When the Romans left the island the operation of the mine was apparently discontinued, and the workings lay abandoned for tens of centuries. The long prosperity of Cyprus was interrupted by the Saracen raids from 644 to 975 A. D., and later by Byzantine misrule. Later came interesting association with the Crusaders. In 1191 the island was occupied by Richard Coeur de Lion, and sold first to the Knights Templar and later to Guy de Lusignan, King of Jerusalem, whose dynasty gave way in 1489 to Venetian rule. Until recently the country was an Ottoman dependency administered by Great Britain, but on the outbreak of the war in 1914 the island was formally annexed to the British Crown and became an integral part of the British Empire, the annexation being recognized by Turkey in the treaty of Lausanne, 1923.

The mine, although still surrounded by ancient slag heaps and other evidences of a historic past, is attaining a very up-to-date appearance. Modern equipment has been installed for the mining and crushing of the ore; the plant also has its own private railroad leading down to the shipping point at Morphu Bay, eight miles away. A modern hospital and a complete town of dwellings for the men and women working for the mine have also been built in the last few years. About two thousand men are employed, sixty-eight per cent of the laborers being Greek, and the remainder Moslems.

Mr. Bruce, who with his family has been visiting relatives in the city, is returning shortly to Cyprus, intending to visit England, Germany, Spain and Italy en route.

"How did you manage about sleeping accommodations for your brother and his wife while they were visiting you?"

"Oh, they are early risers, so they slept in daughter's bed and were always up before she got in and needed it."

Swiss Innkeeper—"The lady's husband went up Mont Blanc and never came back."

His Wife—"Then the poor lady's a widow."

Swiss Innkeeper—"Oh, no! He went down the other side."

Final Bid Played by South

Salient Points of the Bidding

South, because of his worthless singleton, bid the Club in preference to No Trump. North's holding calls for a betterment bid of Hearts rather than No Trump. East, by reason of his strong holding in Hearts, bid by North, anticipates further bidding by South, possibly of No Trump, and puts in South, with Diamonds apparently doubly stopped and but one card of his partner's suit, ventures two No Trumps, concluding the bidding.

Trick 1—Against a No Trump declaration, the leader, holding three cards of his partner's suit headed by a single honor, higher than the ten, should as a rule lead his lowest card. By retaining his honor over Declarer's hand, he may often defeat the latter's expectation of taking two tricks in the suit.

Trick 2—With the Deuce in Dummy, Declarer notes that the three must have seven Diamonds to the Ace-Queen-ten, which did not seem probable. If not a singleton, then the three must have been either West's fourth best, or the lowest of three to an honor higher than the ten, and this honor must have been the Queen. If West held four Diamonds, then East could have held but four. Without indication of strong side support, Declarer considered this also unlikely. Declarer therefore concluded that West's lead was from three to the Queen, and consequently plays his King to the second trick, leaving the Queen with West blocking the suit. If East cannot enter with a Heart, the balance of his Diamonds, though established, cannot be made.

Trick 3—Assuming that the Spade suit will break, Declarer must even then make two Heart tricks for game. This will be impossible if East holds the Ace and guarded. But if Dummy's nine can force the Ace while West is still blocking East's Diamond suit, game is assured. Declarer therefore finesses the nine of Hearts. The finessing failing, the contract is set one trick.

Give Your WANT ADS Every Chance to Pay Out

THERE are four things to keep in mind in using Want Ads. They are: the market, the price, the particular character of your offer, and the wording of your Want Ad. Assuming that your market and price are fair and that your offer is a desirable one, the greatest factor for the consideration of the Want advertiser is the wording of his offer.

A Want Ad is a little thing, but its small size does not indicate that it can be constructed without effort or thought. Want Ads are remunerative in direct proportion to the amount of effort and thought that is expended on them.

The next time you write a Want Ad make a list of the important factors of your offer. In the panel above you will find lists of details of such classifications as Real Estate, Automobiles, Help Wanted, etc., which will help you in picking out the important features of your offer. When you have listed all the outstanding features of your offer, make a new tabulation in which these various factors are recorded in the order of their importance. Then write your Want Ad. Or, better yet, come in, or phone in, and let one of our experts give you their professional assistance—without charge, of course.

TO ERECT NEW RADIO STATION

PLAN IS REACHED REGARDING DAVIS EQUALIZATION AMENDMENT

International Radio Telegraph Treaty Will Become Effective in January

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—A "silent policeman" of the lanes will stand unobtrusively watch for sources of radio interference when the Federal Government establishes its master monitoring station at a point near Omaha, Nebraska. William D. Terrell, radio chief of the Department of Commerce, left Washington on Sunday to select a site for the station.

Supersensitive receiving apparatus, tuned to sweep the whole range of radio frequencies from ten to 30,000 metres, will be installed in the station. The monitors will thereby be able to detect all radio signals, whether code or telephone, and whether they originated in this country or abroad.

Supervisor Terrell will first go to Detroit, where he will confer with the district Federal radio supervisor, S. W. Edwards, who is the designer of the apparatus. Ill in bed, Mr. Edwards has been unable to work recently on this and other projects that have been launched by the Government for the purpose of setting up a more effective patrol of the channels of radio.

Tentative plans, according to Mr. Terrell, call for the erection of a building specially constructed without steel, which might absorb incoming signals. It must be situated in the open, clear of any sources of interference such as broadcasting stations or power plants.

Housed in the station will be the most sensitive and most selective radio receiving sets ever made. They have quartz crystal controls for checking frequency, constancy and time controls, with electrical clocks for timing frequency emanations. A broadcasting station deviating from its wave length will readily be detected, and the deviation recorded by the station staff for the information of the Federal radio authorities.

It is intended that the station shall be able to tune in practically every American broadcasting station of substantial power, but an even more important function will be to maintain a check on the frequencies used by domestic and foreign radio telegraph stations. Definite data will be needed according to Mr. Terrell, in cases of priority disputes that will inevitably arise over international interference on the far-reaching long and short waves.

RADIO TREATY

Such disputes must be arbitrated by special boards prescribed in the international radio telegraph treaty which was signed in Washington last year, and which becomes effective next January 1.

Mr. Edwards is the designer also of the test cars used by the radio division to monitor broadcast waves in different parts of the country, and check radio station field strength. Supervisor Terrell announced today that two more of these cars are being built to add to the four now working out of Chicago, Detroit, Atlanta and San Francisco.

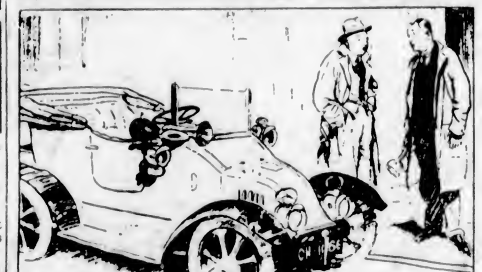

The Department of Commerce radio chief also announced that new district offices are about to be opened in Los Angeles, Dallas and Kansas City. Either E. W. Lovejoy or Benjamin Wolf, new supervisors at San Francisco, will be assigned to the Los Angeles office. Forest Redfern, brother of the late supervisor, Otto Redfern, at Seattle, will leave New York shortly to take charge of the Dallas office. W. J. MacDonald, now assistant inspector at Chicago, will go to Kansas City. Offices were recently opened at Buffalo and Duluth, the latter for the duration of the navigation season on the Great Lakes. An office will later be opened in Denver.

Working steadily at its reallocation project with the aid of the called-in to advise with its own staff of engineers, the Federal Radio Commission took time from that task today to issue two important general orders, and to render decisions in sixteen more cases of small broadcasting stations.

One general order extended until October 1 all broadcasting licences with the exception of those of stations adversely affected by its decisions in the recent cases. The other was a blanket extension of all point-to-point radio telegraph licences until November 1.

The extension of the broadcasting licences indicated that no reallocation will be ordered effective before the new licences are received. Members of the commission say they have about reached an agreement on a plan for reassigning stations on a basis of equal equality as prescribed by the Davis equalization amendment.

LICENCE RENEWALS
Twelve of the sixteen decisions were favorable to the stations involved. The commission ordered licence renewals for stations WKH, Chicago; WDC, Tusculum, Ill.; WSCB-WSDA, Brooklyn, N.Y.; WWRW, Woodside, N.Y.; WJL, Elizabeth, N.J.; WMB, Union City,

GENERAL TREND IN STOCKS IS AGAIN UPWARD

Speculators for Advance Retain Control Despite Rather Heavy Selling and Higher Call Rate

PRICES ARE FIRM IN BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Speculators for the advance retained control of the price movement in today's stock market, despite rather heavy selling inspired by the marking up of the call money rate from 7 1/2 to 8 per cent. Nearly two score issues broke through to new high levels for the year, with seasonal advances of 21 1/2 points in Warner Brothers "A" and 19 1/2 points in the common as the individual features. Net gains of 1 to 1 1/2 points in a long list of other active issues were interspersed with a number of declines ranging from 1 to nearly 8 points. Total sales ran close to 3,750,000 shares.

The spectacular rise in the Warner issues was attributed, in part, to the urgent retreat of an over-crowded short interest.

Fox film "A" ran up nearly 5 points to 99 7/8, as against a low of 72 earlier in the year. Paramount-Famous-Lasky advanced to a new high level and then fell back on realizing.

Concurrent activity and strength of Hupp and Reo Motors, both of which established new records, was based on unconfirmed merger rumors. Chrysler, Packard and Graham-Paige also moved into new high ground, and General Motors closed 2 points higher at 203 1/4.

In a long list of other active issues at 125, was the leader in the public utility group. American Linseed ran up 13 points to a new top at 135, and then eased to 133. Among the many other issues to reach new high ground were Continental Can, Union Carbide, Loew Wiles, Blount, Intercontinental Harvester, Coty, May D. Pm. Stores and Barnsdall "A". Such recent favorites as United States Steel common, American, American International Nickel and Woolworth were ranged behind minus signs at the close.

Sterling cables ruled around $4.85 1/4, as against a low of $4.80 1/4, and broke 13 points to 45.50 cents. Trading was slightly less active but prices were firm on the bond market, with rails and convertibles prominent among issues making small gains.

A bond is a first claim on the government or firm issuing it—secured by assets and income which are more than ample to provide for repayment of principal and prompt payment of interest.

We speak now of issues offered by established financial institutions, whose first consideration is safe investment for those who rely upon its judgment and counsel.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

JUST LIKE A WOMAN

Mr. O. B. Shaw has seen and heard himself on the "Movietone" and is believed to have been favorably impressed.

Meeting his pet enemy on Main Street on day, Jim observed affably: "I was saying some good things about you to a man this morning."

"You was?"

"Y'was. I said you had the best cattle an' sheep of any farmer I known. An' what was more, I said that pair o' horses o' yours was the finest in Franklin County—wuth at least $800."

"Whod you say 'it too'?" queried the flattered foe.

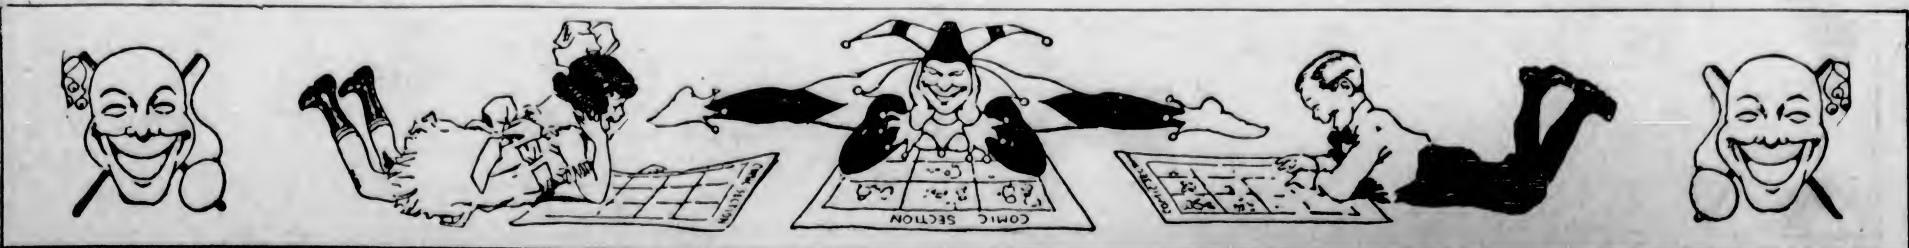

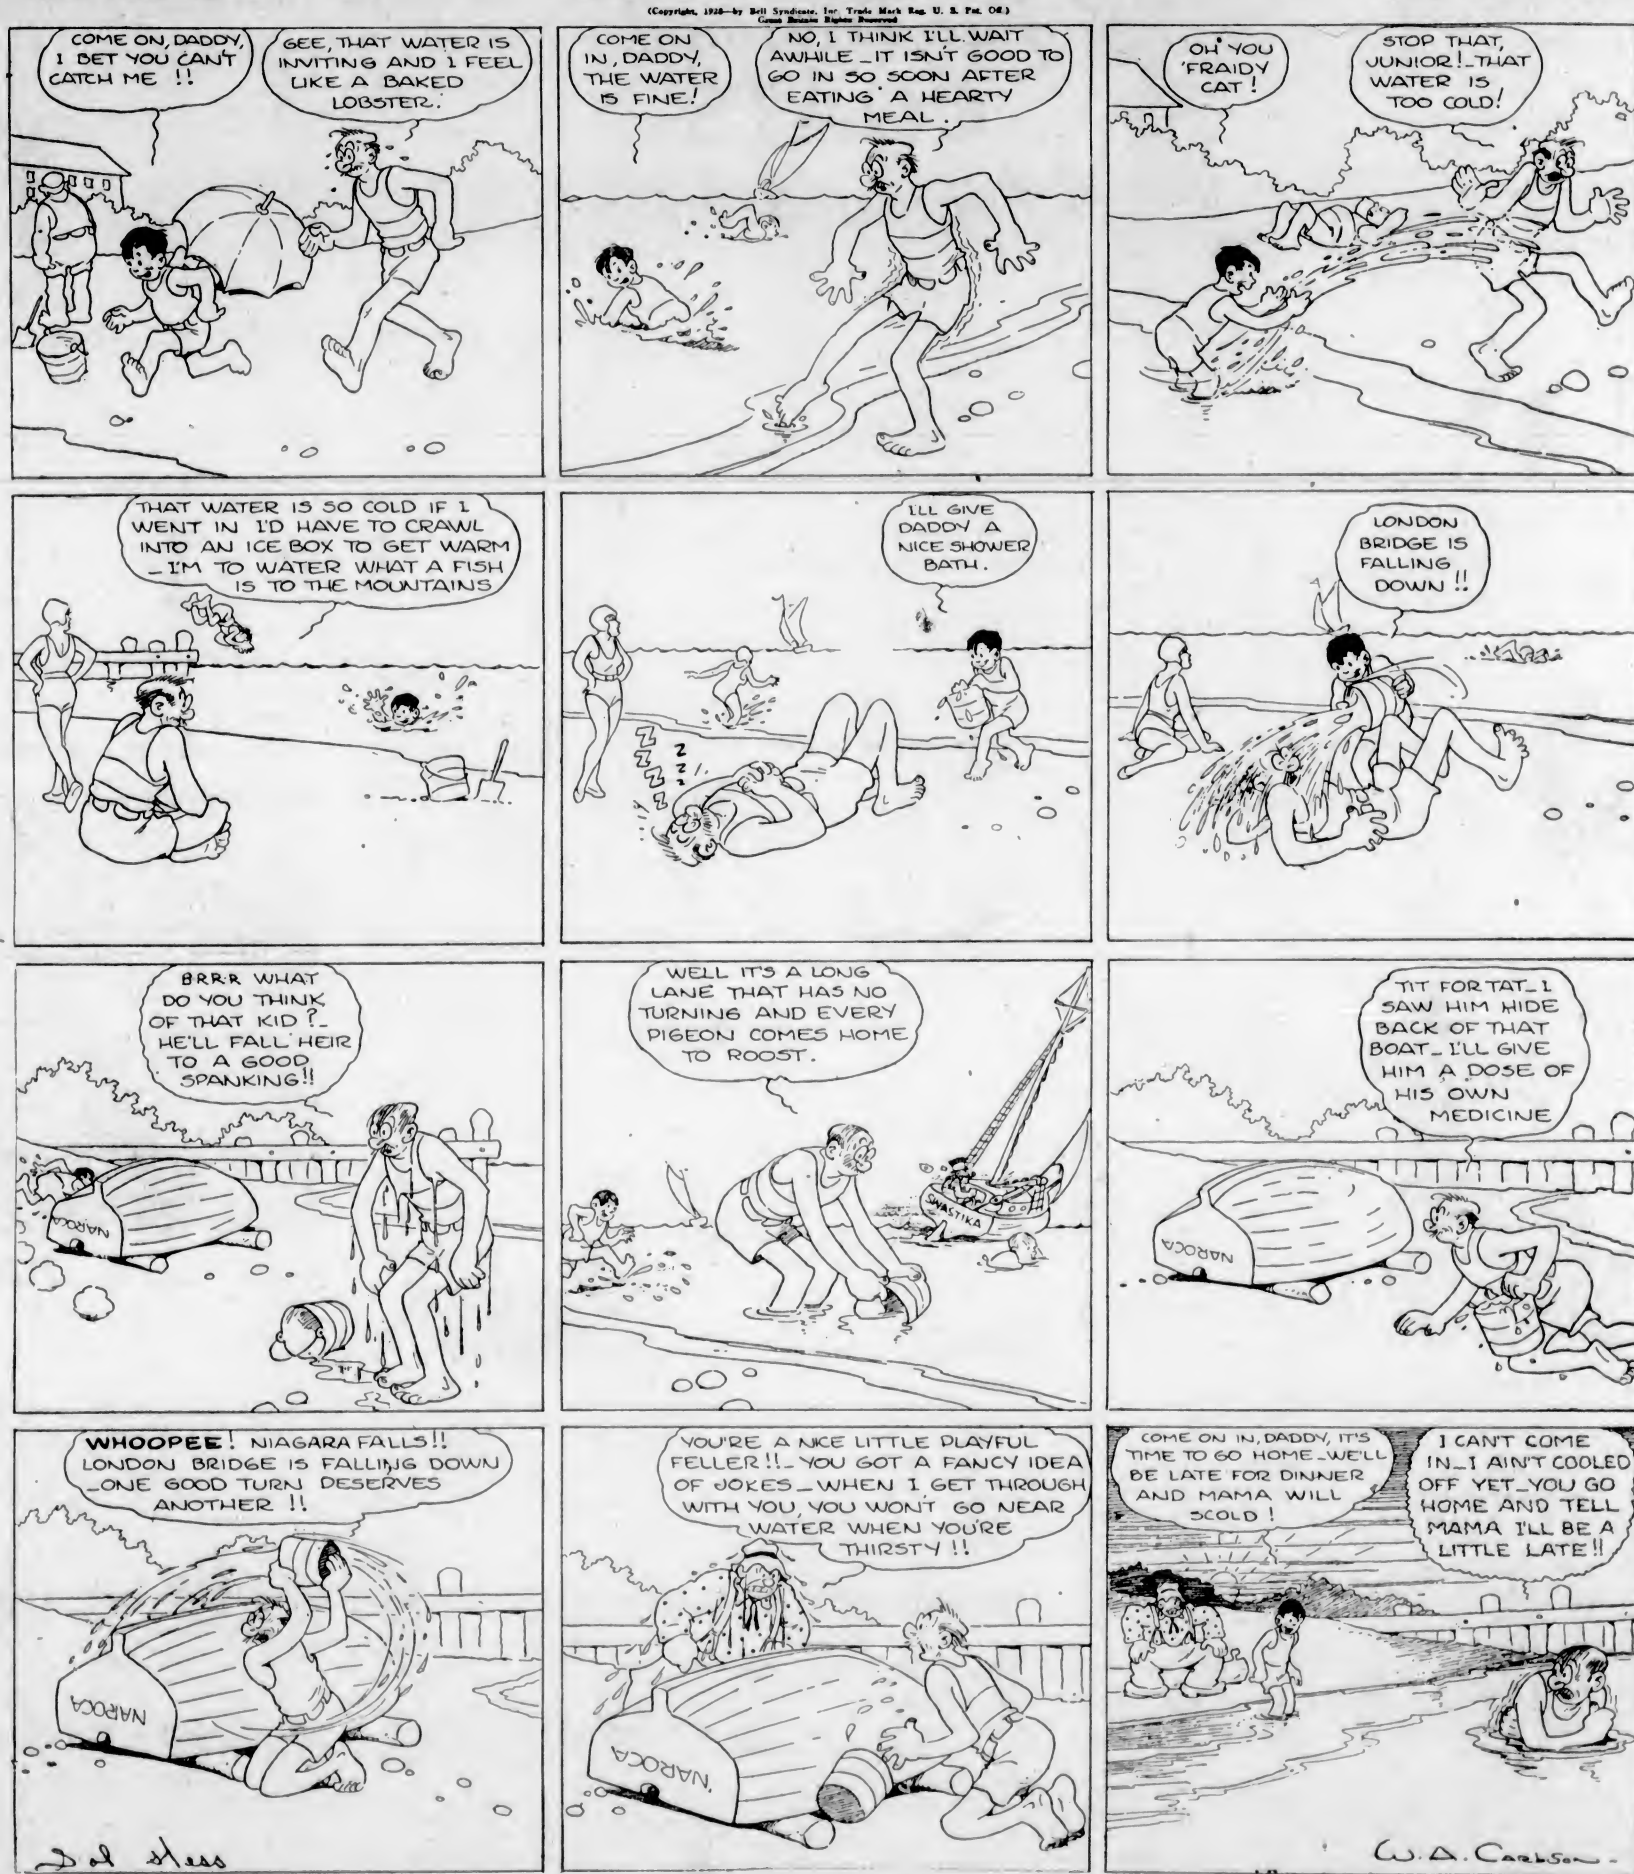

"The tax assessor."

VICTORIA NINE SPLIT TWIN BILL

Capitals Break Even in Holiday
Ball Feature With Visiting
Japanese Squad

The Capitals, Island baseball champions, split a twin bill with the visiting Taiyos, Japanese ball squad from Seattle, on Labor Day at the Royal Athletic Park, when they lost the initial contest 11-9 and captured the nightcap 7-4.

In the first game, "Lopez, Wash., hit the ball for the local nine and twirled fair ball through the air. Although he struck out eleven nine of the visiting crew, he walked five and led the visitors with the willow by annexing two hits out of three trips to the platter.

T. Takayoshi, star flinger for Taiyos, did the heavy work and held the locals in check especially at critical moments. He struck out three, walked five and led the visitors with the willow by annexing two hits out of three trips to the platter. Art Webster and Norm Forbes were the heavy hitters for the locals, the former obtaining three out of five trips, one going for a homer over the right field wall, while the latter connected for three out of four.

SECOND GAME

Norm Forbes was the big noise in the second game when he poled out a home run, besides attending to his mound duties in a high-class manner. A Takayoshi, moundman for the visitors, was unsteady at times and the Capitals nicked him for thirteen bingles. Ross Oatman had a perfect evening at bat, banging four hits out of four trips to the plate.
